August 22–24 & August 24–26

The Francis Asbury Society was organized to perpetuate the biblical message of heart holiness—an undivided heart—a life ‘wholly devoted to God’ . . . to preach the gospel of an undivided heart, a heart filled with love for God to the extent that a person’s got his hands off, and Christ possesses him. —Dennis Kinlaw

Session Descriptions

The Perfect Heart (Jerry Coleman)

David’s holy heart is described in Psalm 101. David was not without flaw, but could he have a blameless heart? Love is the very heart of holiness. How can we possibly love the Lord our God with all our hearts? The heart of the issue is the issue of the heart.

The Witness of an Undivided Heart (Robert Coleman)

Revival brings us to an undivided heart. God desires to restore us to our original purpose, to how we were made. Dr. Coleman will share some of his personal experience during the 1950 Asbury revival.

An Undivided Heart Is a Heart that Trusts (Cricket Albertson)

Trust is the essence of surrender. If we believe God is good and that he is for us, then we are free to surrender our hearts and our lives to him without any reservation. The Psalms are full of declarations of trust, and Psalm 71:1-3 has been Cricket’s declaration these last few months.

The Joy of an Undivided Heart (Robert Coleman)

“Will you not revive us again, that your people may rejoice in you?” (Ps 85:6). Joy is the result of having a true heart. People rejoice as a result of a revived heart.

An Undivided Heart Is a Heart that Has the Mind of Christ (Cricket Albertson)

Dr. Kinlaw believed that the mind of Christ was the witness of an undivided heart in any life: no self-interest, no conceit, no complaining, and no arguing (Phil 2). Cricket will illustrate this with his witness, which he gave to his family in the final weeks of his life.

Jesus, Lord of My Heart (Jerry Coleman)

In this session, Jerry will share his story of how he surrendered his self-centeredness and how Jesus filled his heart with his love. His story of a second work of grace came while he was a student at Asbury Theological Seminary preparing for ministry. Everything changed.
