DENNIS KINLAW STORIES

It seems that almost everyone who knew Dennis Kinlaw or sat under his ministry has a story to tell! Whether it was the words he shared, the look in his eyes, the hilarity of his laugh, or the wag of his finger, many of us want to share how his life impacted ours. We need to share these stories! A blog post has been created by The Francis Asbury Society for this purpose. Let's share our stories with each other. To tell your story, go to:

A SPECIAL THANK YOU

Thanks are extended to the many who have helped in many different ways to put together the events associated with this service of celebration, but a special thanks goes to Dr. Sandra Gray and her wonderful team at Asbury University. You will never know how much your generous hospitality has meant to the Kinlaw family during these days. Thank you!

HOLY SONNET 14

By John Donne (1572–1631)

*Batter my heart, three-personed God, for you
As yet but knock, breathe, shine, and seek to mend;
That I may rise, and stand, o'erthrow me, and bend
Your force to break, blow, burn, and make me new.*

*I, like an usurped town, to another due,
Labour to admit you, but Oh, to no end.
Reason, your viceroy in me, me should defend,
But is captived, and proves weak or untrue.
Yet dearly I love you, and would be loved fain,*

*But am betrothed unto your enemy:
Divorce me, untie or break that knot again,
Take me to you, imprison me, for I,
Except you enthrall me, never shall be free,
Nor ever chaste, except you ravish me.*

THE SIGNIFICANCE OF DR. KINLAW'S BURIAL ROBES

The robe Dr. Kinlaw wears was a gift from Dr. Frances Hughson, a Presbyterian medical missionary to China in the early twentieth century and the private physician of the last empress of China. She also donated the property in Albany, New York, which became the location for Loudonville Community Church where Dr. Kinlaw was the founding pastor (1952–1963). For Dr. Kinlaw, the robe represents not so much the world of academia as it does the world for which Jesus died.

"Give me one divine moment when God acts, and I say that moment is far superior to all the human efforts of man through the centuries." —Dr. Dennis F. Kinlaw
